NEWS CUTTINGS

Our cuttings are a valuable resource because newspapers and magazines are often the only place where information on a place, person or subject has been published. Over 10,000 cuttings are available, covering a large variety of local subjects and events. Most were published in the 20th century but there are some earlier items.

PERIODICALS

Our collections include over 100 periodical titles including newsletters from churches, schools, local societies, community organisations and residents' groups. We also hold historical and archaeological journals relating to London and periodicals about local history, family history and archives. Our periodicals mostly date from the 20th century but a number of 19th century parish magazines are held.
